Virtual community medicine in sparsely populated regions: A case study from Northern Sweden

Published On: May 03, 2024 | Pages: 007 - 009

Author(s): Andreas Koch*

The short case study outlines the potential that Virtual Health Rooms (VHRs) can exhibit to mitigate a lack of public health services and community medicine infrastructure in sparsely populated and demographically ageing regions. Although the VHR idea has its strengths in surmounting a relatively low medical service environment, it is, nonetheless, a technologically d ...
